

IMPORTANT LEGISLATIVE UPDATE!

If you've been convicted of a felony, you can still register to vote in Alabama unless your crime involved "moral turpitude."

We used to have very little guidance about which crimes involve moral turpitude, and some people were unsure about whether they could exercise their right to vote.

So what counts as "moral turpitude"?

But in 2017, the state legislature passed a law that makes things clearer.

Now you don't have to worry about whether you can vote.

Only the crimes on this list involve moral turpitude!

Just check the list of crimes on the back of this flyer. If your crime isn't on there, you can vote!

Flip this flier over to see the list of crimes involving moral turpitude as of July 2017. And for more info, go to naacpldf.org.

If your crime isn't on this list, you can register to vote in Alabama! www.alabamavotes.gov
